RE: Summer Intern

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Summer Analyst Intern position at Goldman Sachs. As a college student pursuing a Bachelor's degree in Computer Engineering, I am incredibly excited to enter the corporate world and gain the practical experience I need to further develop my skills in different technologies and new trends.

I realize that Goldman Sachs is a competitive and demanding environment. I strongly believe that my strong Collaboration, Critical thinking, and Leadership skills would make me a good fit for this position. My experience of working on a number of group projects as part of my academic curriculum has helped me develop my collaboration skills. My critical thinking is exceptionally strong, and I can work quickly to evaluate and analyze vast amounts of data while using it for actionable insights. My leadership skills have also been essential in working with my team to work through difficult challenges and meet demanding deadlines. All of these strengths would enable me to work independently or as a part of a team with the excellent communication and interpersonal skills necessary to excel in this position.

I am excited to apply for this position because I'm confident that I am the right candidate based on my skills, experience, and strengths as a Summer Analyst Intern. Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity to interview with you and further discuss my qualifications.

Sincerely,

Rohan Malhotra
